Kustomland - Thom Taylor 2008

In the late 1950s, as designers from the Big Three became more daring, their do-it-yourself counterparts in the custom-car world found that the new designs from Detroit worked exceptionally well with custom treatments like shaving, lowering, "lakes pipes," and the ever-wilder custom painting of the day--aesthetics that would come to dominate this peak custom car era. Professional freelance photographer James Potter captured the epicenter of this landmark scene in what was then suburban Los Angeles. In this photographic history of that time and place, Thom Taylor presents the best of Potter's collection depicting the cars of "Kustomland." Two- and four-page features on two-dozen renowned customs from mild to radical feature not only Potter's exemplary work, but brief capsule histories of the cars and their owners and captions detailing the cars' features. Taylor also includes features on legendary custom painter Larry Watson and the Renegades car club, as well as a biography of Potter and a historic overview of Kustomland and the areas it encompassed. TechTV's Mod Mania with Yoshi - Joshua DeHerrera 2003

What's lemon yellow with a red headlight and a porthole window that allows users to peer at its innards? Could be your computer if you get this guide to the art and science of "modding" from TechTV personality (and modding maniac!) Yoshi Deherrera. In these pages, Yoshi introduces you to the wild and wacky world of computer and device customization--or modding (if you hadn't already figured it out). Using modding projects like those he displays on The Screen Savers TV show, Yoshi shows you all kinds of ways to dress up that beast on your desktop--from adding neon lights to creating the ultimate gaming machine. You'll find instructions for approximately 15 modding projects--from beginning (painting a cell phone) to advanced (cutting windows in computer cases and more). And if you need inspiration, you'll love the showcase section highlighting Yoshi's favorite mods from around the Web. Clear graphics, easy-to-follow instructions, and expert tips round out the package.

Still Preying - Tracie Loveless Hill 2018-06-26

After being shot and nearly killed, Rev. Randall Harris is a changed man. He has become a good husband, a dedicated Pastor, and he's turned his life over to the Lord. But his former right hand man, Deacon Samuel Wise seems poised to take over where Rev. Harris left off. Deacon Wise wants the old Rev. Harris back--the scoundrel who once ran the streets with him and preyed on the women of the congregation. Deacon Wise is on his own, though, and continues to lead a secret life built on lies, cheating--and eventually, theft. When Unity Missionary Baptist Church receives a hefty inheritance from one of its beloved members, Deacon Wise schemes to see if he can get his hands on some of it--but without his old "partner in crime" to cover for him, he's treading on dangerous ground. When violence brings everything to a head, the good Deacon could lose all he's worked for, and risk the safety of those he cares about--and all because he is Still Preying!

The Ten Commandments - David A. Oliver 2016-08-24
Written with the finger of God nearly 3,500 years ago, the Ten Commandments still provide God's moral standards and principles for worship. While these laws were central to the people of the Old Testament, they remain vital to God's people today. The Ten Commandments is a series of sermons preached from the pulpit of Ashley Baptist Church in Belding, Michigan. These sermons explore several facets of each commandment, and at the same time provide the reader with a big picture statement and point of application. These messages on the Ten Commandments are "profitable" (II Tim. 3:16) for practical living, but most importantly, they point to the Jesus Christ as the Savior from sin (Gal. 3:24).

Limitless - Taiwo Odukoya 2008

The author contradicts the concept that man is limited. He argues that since man is a creation of an unlimited God, then any limits on man are man's own barriers. (Practical Life)

Lead Sleds - Joe Kress

Originally, "lead sled" was a derogatory term used to refer to any custom car whose owner used lead as a body filler -- often poorly applied. Today, the term no longer carries the negative connotations, instead referring to any custom that has undergone extensive bodywork, including frenched headlights, shaved door handles, a chopped top, a sectioned body, reworked lines, or any combination thereof. This book will examine the hottest lead sleds on the nation's custom scene today, with brief histories of the cars and all-new color photography.

Gambling for Cash - Cal S. Mobley Jr. 2013-06-07

Cash, a young man born and raised by both parents in a home most would call built on not only spiritual morals and principles but common sense of street as well. Kicked out of high school before graduation he struggled to live life the way his father did, righteously. Thru marriage and everyday life he tried but got caught up in a whirlwind of relationships while at the same time married to the woman of his youth. Work, play, right, and wrong, Cash moved in a manner no one would ever imagine, especially knowing he started at the tender age of 16. With all his youth still bottled up inside and still rightfully a teenager Cash was forced to cash in and become not only a husband but a full fledged father sooner than he thought, but like always, in the end, Cash rules.

I Became the Boat People - Don Lao, CPCU 2014-01-08

The Vietnam War featured political upheavals, battle tactics, and lots of publicity. But underneath all that were everyday people whose lives were forever altered by three decades of fighting. In this memoir, author Don Lao looks back at what the people of Vietnam went through with this account of how his family went from living an honest and simple life to losing everything in a harrowing war that engulfed Southeast Asia. Lao lived an idyllic childhood with his parents, eight brothers, and four sisters, but he was eventually swept into the South Vietnamese Army. Although he was born in Vietnam, he was Chinese in heritage—and so he was always treated like a foreigner, even when he was fighting the communists. When Saigon fell, he sought a better life, leading him to a cargo ship along with other refugees who became known as the boat people. Their path to America was the first step in finding better lives and reconnecting with loved ones. Their tenacity and resiliency earned them the ultimate freedom as Americans living the American dream.

Blacki - Mike Lemonte 2017-12-04

A dispirited small town in Georgia believes it lives under a curse that was conjured by the towns founding father during the Civil War. The people of Fair Haven do not share one another's joys. They do not comfort one another's pains. They barely relate to one another, but for clandestine, they huddle at the back of the nights quiet. They have never learned to rally around their own. Or have they? They agree on one thing: there are monsters in the woods. An agent of US Fish and Wildlife, Causey Bentz, has set up camp in the neck of the woods before and seems to be as interested in the bigfoot on the mountain as the citizens are prepared to pretend it does not exist, for the last thing they intend to be is having backwoods fodder as a punch line for the world's disbelief in mysterious things. The local pastor uncovers a rich vein of civic pride and indiscreet support within tattered linking of folks and is pressed into service as an undersheriff. If the people will not attend Sunday services, the sanctuary will come to them. Father Chad, as they have come to call him, makes house calls. Polly Mankiller, the sheriff, attempts to balance the spiritual keel of the town that is seeing young folks drop off the rolls forever, for a scourge of poison in the form of recreational boredoms first casualty is killing them. A biblical reign of weather draws the world's focus on a town that only wanted to be left alone. In a time when people are increasingly alienated, what first appears to have been parts of a cosmic mockery shows increasingly to be blessings of a merciful god. Slowly the people come to recognize their need for one another. Mr. Blackburn, known affectionately as Blackie, is the unofficial mayor of the town and somewhat of an old-style fixer. He is one of the few men in the town to have grown up without a father and whose life dramatizes the fact that not all poverty is rooted in the lack of material things. Fair Haven depends on Blackies masterful but understated grip on the town, but to whom will he lean as spiritual decay gnaws at him from the inside? Is Bigfoot a descendant of Gigantopithecus blacki? A relict hominoid? A Heidelbergensis? Will Blackie help to hold together a town that seems primed to implode under the weight of meteorological oddities and strange creatures at the edge of the woods? Sometimes, it is enough to believe in those who believe.

Dante's Choice - David Lisenby 2020-11-11

Damien Lawrence just finished serving twelve years for an ungrateful gang leader. Many things have changed since he was home; the world he left is but a memory, and the world doesn't operate the way it did years ago. While trying to find his place in life, he finds the one thing that hasn't changed is him, the Menace. When he is reintroduced to the streets, he finds he is plagued with resentment and retribution for the ones that have wronged him. The one thing he can change is his younger brother, Dante, who is faced with the choice to follow his older brother's blueprint or learn from the mistakes of his elders and go a new route. Dante's Choice is swayed by opportunity and peer pressure, as well as redemption and loss. Making the right choice isn't always easy, especially if it is between struggle and pain.

Motorama - David Temple 2015-01-15

In an age of unbridled American enthusiasm and towering industrial might, the GM Motorama was a dazzling and elegant show that was unlike any automotive event before it or since. General Motors staged extravagant and elaborate Motorama shows that rivaled some fashion shows. It showcased some of the most revolutionary and innovative prototype and dream cars ever built. And it captured the imagination of the car-buying public from 1950 to 1961. Motorama expert and experienced author David Temple has comprehensively researched the show, the cars, and the personalities to create a fascinating new story with many new photos of these magnificent cars. Because television was in its infancy, GM's President Alfred Sloan believed that the Motorama was the most effective way to market GM products and design prowess. Legendary stylist Harley Earl led a talented group of designers and engineers to dream up, style, and develop some of the most remarkable prototype cars of all time. While current production Buick, Chevy, Cadillac, and Pontiac cars were showcased, the bold, radical, awe-inspiring prototype and dream cars stole the show. These included the GM Le Sabre, replete with aerospace design and an aluminum engine; the fiberglass-bodied Corvette dream car, which went into production after overwhelmingly positive response; and the jet engine-powered Firebird. Temple goes into fascinating detail on the body, frame, engine, drivetrain, and all the special features of each model. He has also retraced the ownership histories of some of these cars. Within the pages of this volume, you get to relive this glorious era of automotive history and revisit the advanced show cars that inspired so many new models. This book features fascinating period photography of Motorama cars at the show, in development, and at different locales. No other automotive show rivaled the Motorama for stunning productions and awe-inspiring cars, which makes this a must-have book.
