Hesperides Press are republishing these classic works in affordable, high quality, modern editions, using the original text and artwork. Excerpt from The Apiary: Or, Beehives, and Bee Culture HE present issue of our handbook may be fairly said' to be really a new work. Not that the greater portion of it has been consecutively re-written, nor yet that the larger half of the former matter has wholly disappeared; but the additions of entirely new sections and half-sections, the transpositions with a view to facilitating reference, the erasures of what is either out of date or only repetition-in short, the thorough over hauling of the text from beginning to end - are such as to render the form in which it is now presented a new book rather than an ordinary fresh edition.

First as to our own department, the practical appliances. The descriptions of several-hives and apparatus that have gone out of use have been removed to make room for the much larger number of new and improved inventions. Iron; Its Sources, Properties, and Manufacture - William Henry Greenwood 1907

The Timewaster Letters - Robin Cooper 2008

A uniquely British twist on the goofy letters-to-strangers genre, this brilliant compilation chronicles one man's outrageous and bizarre letters--to trade groups, department stores, clubs, political parties, and a certain children's book publisher--and the amazing responses he received to his ideas, observations, and unsolicited feedback. Asking countless questions, such as Would the Campaign for Courtesy be interested in his 10-Point Plan for a Courteous Britain? Could the Ball & Roller Bearing Manufacturers Association contact his "ball-bearing mad" son to suggest that he scale back his 95,000-piece collection? and Might Madame Tussaud's be interested in creating a wax likeness of him in a toga?, the book reveals the courteous and often bemused correspondence between the imaginative time waster and his unsuspecting targets, all of whom only encouraged him further. Hilarious and off-the-wall, this volume will have fellow schemers laughing out loud--and reaching for their pens.
