Refugee Protection and the Role of Law - Susan Kneebone
2014-06-27

Sixty years on from the signing of the Refugee Convention, forced migration and refugee movements continue to raise global concerns for hosting states and regions, for countries of origin, for humanitarian organisations on the ground, and, of course, for the refugee. This edited volume is framed around two themes which go to the core of contemporary 'refugeehood': protection and identity. It analyses how the issue of refugee identity is shaped by and responds to the legal regime of refugee protection in contemporary times. The book investigates the premise that there is a narrowing of protection space in many countries and many highly visible incidents of refoulement. It argues that 'Protection', which is a core focus of the Refugee Convention, appears to be under threat, as there are many gaps and inconsistencies in practice. Contributors to the volume, who include Erika Feller, Elspeth Guild, Hélène Lambert and Roger Zetter, look at the relevant issues from the perspective of a number of different disciplines including law, politics, sociology, and anthropology. The chapters examine the link between identity and protection as a basis for understanding how the Refugee Convention has been and is being applied in policy and practice. The situation in a number of jurisdictions and regions in Europe, North America, South East Asia, Africa and the Middle East is explored in order to ask the question does jurisprudence under the Refugee Convention need better coordination and how successful is oversight of the Convention?

Social States - Alastair Iain Johnston 2014-06-12
"Constructive engagement" became a catchphrase under the Clinton administration for America's reinvigorated efforts to pull China firmly into the international community as a responsible player, one that abides by widely accepted norms. Skeptics questioned the effectiveness of this policy and those that followed. But how is such socialization supposed to work in the first place? This has never been all that clear, whether practiced by the Association of South East Asian Nations (ASEAN), Japan, or the United States. Social States is the first book to systematically test the effects of socialization in international relations--to help explain why players on the world stage may be moved to cooperate when doing so is not in their material power interests. Alastair Iain Johnston carries out his groundbreaking theoretical task through a richly detailed look at China's participation in international security institutions during two crucial decades of the "rise of China," from 1980 to 2000. Drawing on sociology and social psychology, this book examines three microprocesses of socialization--mimicking, social influence, and persuasion--as they have played out in the attitudes of Chinese diplomats active in the Conference on Disarmament, the Comprehensive Nuclear Test Ban, the Convention on Conventional Weapons, and the ASEAN Regional Forum. Among the key conclusions: Chinese officials in the post-Mao era adopted more cooperative and more self-constraining commitments to arms control and disarmament treaties, thanks to their increasing social interactions in international security institutions.

Regulating Competition in the EU - Pernille Wegener

Jessen 2016-04-20

Competition law in the EU includes a wide range of topics and has developed into a very comprehensive area of regulation. This book covers the broader perspective of competition law, giving an overview of a very complex domain of EU law. Through all relevant sources of primary and secondary EU law the book presents the intricacies of the present competition framework for businesses and public entities. It draws the lines between the different areas, and between competition law and the internal market project. The book covers all aspects of traditional EU competition law, as well as issues not formally regulated in the TFEU section on competition rules – the competition issues of the liberalised sectors and public procurement. Among the matters covered are the following: • the substantive rules on Articles 101 and 102 TFEU; • the enforcement rules of these provisions; • merger control; • the liberalised sectors, with focus on energy, transport, postal services and telecommunication; • state aid; • public undertakings; and • public procurement. With its enhanced view of EU competition policy, regulation, and enforcement, and its emphasis on specific industry sectors, this book offers an unusually thorough view of aspects of competition law which play an essential role in regulating the conduct of undertakings and public authorities in the market. It will be of special value to any lawyer, policymaker, or scholar active in European competition law.

Die CORBA-Technologie: Eine leistungsfähige Basis für die Entwicklung integrierter Informationssysteme unter Verwendung wiederverwendbarer "Geschäftsobjekte" -

Wolfgang Bartz 1997-09-12

Inhaltsangabe:Gang der Untersuchung: Der Anforderungskatalog zukünftiger Informationstechnologien liefert den Untersuchungsgegenstand dieser Arbeit und bewertet die Potentiale neuer Paradigmen zur Entwicklung integrierter Informationssysteme. Den Schwerpunkt bildet dabei die Wiederverwendung marktkäuflicher Komponenten, welche mit Hilfe von Plattformen zu lauffähigen Softwaresystemen integriert werden können. Das nachfolgende Kapitel beinhaltet die theoretischen Grundlagen der Wiederverwendung, wobei insbesondere neue Konzepte, wie komponentenorientierte Softwarebausteine, berücksichtigt werden. Der zweite Themenbereich liegt in dem Vergleich der z.Z. wichtigsten Plattformen zur Integration von Anwendungssystemen, nachdem die Voraussetzungen und Eigenschaften integrierter Informationssysteme beschrieben wurden. Die theoretische Betrachtung umfaßt als einen wichtigen Punkt semantische Referenzsysteme auf den einzelnen Ebenen der Anwendungssysteme. Die Idee der Geschäftsobjekte wird im fünften Kapitel dokumentiert, insbesondere werden die unterschiedlichen Ansätze zur Begriffsbestimmung dieses neuen Architekturmodells beschrieben. Nach einer kurzen Präsentation ausgewählter Produkte definieren wir einen Anforderungskatalog für die Entwicklung und Verwendung von Businessobjekten, welcher die Basis für die nachfolgenden Kapitel liefert. Die technische

Dokumentation der CORBA-Technologie bildet das sechste Kapitel, wobei hier das Ziel verfolgt wird, Aspekte bzgl. der Eignung von Geschäftsobjekten in den Vordergrund zu stellen. Im einzelnen werden aus diesem Grund auf die Interoperabilität und Sicherheitsmechanismen besonderen Wert gelegt. Den Abschluß der Arbeit bildet die kurze Beschreibung eines modifizierten Vorgehensmodells, welches sich für die Entwicklung integrierter Softwaresysteme auf der Grundlage wiederverwendbarer Geschäftsobjekte eignet. Wir beschreiben die einzelnen Phasen, wobei schwerpunktmäßig Techniken zum Finden geeigneter Businessobjekte bzw. die Integration einzelner Komponenten untersucht werden.
